Manufacturing Process

Material Selection and Preparation:

- * This involves sourcing high-quality stainless steel sheets.
- * Cutting the sheets to the required dimensions using methods like laser cutting or shearing.

Forming the Sink Bowl:

- * This is often done through a "deep drawing" process using hydraulic presses.
- * The steel is pressed into a die to create the desired bowl shape.
- * Annealing may be required to relieve stress in the metal.

Trimming and Finishing:

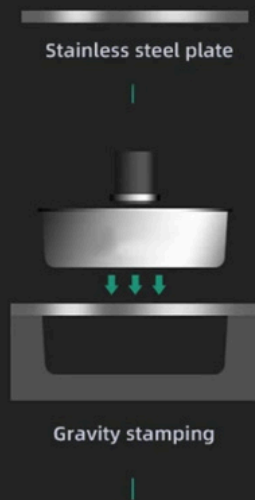

- * Excess material is trimmed from the formed sink.
- * Holes for drains and faucets are punched or drilled.
- * The sink undergoes various finishing processes, such as:
 - * Polishing to achieve a smooth, shiny surface.
 - * Brushing or other surface treatments for specific textures.

Quality Control:

- * Rigorous inspections are conducted throughout the process to ensure quality and consistency.
